The RPA (Renewable Power Association) is holding its first Biogas Conference at Savoy Place in London on Thursday 9th December 2004. In the evening there will be a Drinks Reception and Conference Dinner, hosted by Clarke Energy Ltd in the Riverside Suite overlooking the River Thames.

The conference has the aim of:-

- Looking to the future of landfill gas

- Examining the regulatory pressures and drivers impacting on the biogas industry

Clarke Energy's substantial share of the landfill gas market see their support and association with the RPA as a partnership towards a greater understanding of the benefits of renewable energy. International Sales Director, Alan Fletcher had pleasure in stating 'We are pleased to be part of the RPA's first Biogas conference and our support by sponsoring the evenings drinks reception and dinner only emphasises our belief in what the RPA are striving to achieve'.
